CONCERT – KIANGARDARUP

Kiangardarup is an original composition by Robert Zielinski for violin, wooden flute, cello and bouzouki, inspired by the majestic Torbay Inlet in Western Australia's Great Southern region. It is an evocative piece that takes the listener on a journey, from the awakening dawn through the heat of the day, to dusk and a still night spent under the karri forest and stars. Kiangardarup comes from the country of the Minang people, that have lived there for thousands of generations.
